In anticipation of Christmas, many families with children like to make or use an Advent Calendar in preparation for Christmas Day. For kids, it is a way of keeping track of the number of days until the day arrives. We love some of the very creative Advent calendars you can make but we also think it is fun just to let kids keep a calendar they can mark off as the days go by.

Our printable Advent calendar is printed onto 2 separate pages, which you can tape together. Kids can color in the square for that day (any color they want). It's a fun way to do the Christmas countdown. Let the kids decorate their own Advent calendar page if they want or cut it out into the shape of a tree and tape onto the door or wall.

The actual printable is black and white, leaving the decorating to your own little Picassos.
